See this link to see if you can update the OSiPad or if your iPad is obsolete. <https://www.lifewire.com/obsolete-ipad-4138570>

If you can't update you most likely can still access most of these apps, but the tutorials and videos may not be completely the same as what you I share in class. Students using tablets other than iPad, please let me know so I can include alternative apps. susiemonday@gmail.com

For OSiPad 15 information see the official IOS iPad manual here: User Guide IOS 15. Other versions of the iPad IOS also have their own user guides.

Some apps are now subscription only, I try to present alternatives (and demo those briefly) but you may decide one or another is perfect for you. We will also look at NOTES that is built in software on your iPad. Here is a link for a page of suggested apps, some I have used, others not.

Day One

Day One -- This is a really easy to use journaling app that is "just the basics." You can only post one image per post, but you can post several different photos by posting on the same date. The free version works fine if you don't need to sync with other devices. The subscription is $2.95 a month, so reasonable. <https://dayoneapp.com>
